Galehouse Given McCarthy's Nod

Veteran Is Pitching Choice For All-Important Contest

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 4 (AP)—Lefthander Gene Bearden, winner of 19 games in Cleveland's drive toward its first pennant since 1920, was the Indian's starting pitcher today against Boston's veteran Denny Galehouse in the first tie playoff game in the history of the American League.

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 4 (AP)—Denny Galehouse, a 36-year-old veteran of countless baseball campaigns, was Manager Joe McCarthy's choice today to pitch for the Boston Red Sox against the Cleveland Indians in the first tie playoff game in American League history.

McCarthy crossed up the experts who expected Mel Parnell to work this important sudden death finale for the pennant before some 34,000 chilled topcoated spectators. Today's winner meets the Boston Braves in the World Series starting Wednesday.

The old war horse from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, has an 8-7 record for the season. He's 1-1 against the Indians and hasn't pitched a single ball since September 26. His last start was September 18 when he was knocked out in the seventh by the St. Louis Browns.

Galehouse, a righthander who helped pitch the St. Louis Browns to their first championship in 1944, was picked by McCarthy in a surprise move while the Sox were thumping batting practice pitchers off the friendly left field wall at Fenway Park.

There was a suspicion in the press box that McCarthy might be pursuing a little strategy in announcing Galehouse. It could be that he was picking a right-hander to get all the Cleveland left-handed batters in the lineup and then shift to a southpaw, possibly Parnell.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Indians, who lost a chance to wrap up the championship yesterday afternoon, still refused to pick his pitcher. Bob Lemon, Bobby Feller or Gene Bearden appeared to be the possibilities, about in that order.

The lineups as announced, with the exception of the Cleveland pitcher, were:

| Cleveland | Boston |
|---|---|
| Mitchell, lf | DiMaggio, cf |
| Clark, 2b | Pesky, 3b |
| Boudreau, ss | Williams, lf |
| Gordon, 2b | Stephens ss |
| Doby, cf | Doerr, 2b |
| Keltner, 3b | Spence, rf |
| Reynolds, rf | Goodman, 1b |
| Hegan, c | Tebbets, c |
| | Galehouse, p |

Umpires—McGowan, Summers, Rommel and Berry.

Boudreau said he was not trying to be cagey nor a "smart guy" about his starting pitcher but did not want to have him bothered.

Feller and Beardon both came out with the rest of the club but Lemon was not around. Apparently he still was in the club house.

Tommy McCarthy, the custodian of the Boston Red Sox' press room, was still wearing last summer's jerky straw hat. He could have used ear laps on it this frosty afternoon. It was warm enough in the sun but the stands were like a refrigerator.

Mitchell flied to Williams who made the catch in front of the left field scoreboard.

Fire Threatens Forests; Zena Conflagration Burns Over Grassland

Woodstock, Oct. 4—State police are investigating a fire which destroyed one of four frame cottages on the property of the unoccupied Overlook Mountain House Saturday night.

The spectacular blaze, visible throughout a wide area in the Hudson valley and mountain country, levelled the house and threatened the sun-parched woodlands on the summit of the mountain.

A second fire in the area Sunday burned over nearly four acres of grassland on the Montcena DeWitt property at Zena and it was also a threat to the dry forests and several buildings in the area.

The fire atop Overlook was discovered at about 9 p. m., and it threw up a broad, shimmering glare in the sky for more than an hour. The brilliant and intense reflection, at least in once instance, was mistaken for a fire much closer to the Kingston area and the Hurley fire department went out on the belief that the blaze was in the vicinity of Hurley mountain.

Firemen from the Woodstock department and a force of men led by Fire Warden Aaron Van de Bogart, made their way to the fire over more than a mile of virtually impassable road from Meade's Mountain House.

Spread of Blaze Averted

Flames had consumed most of the structure by the time the men arrived, and lack of water on the mountain, would have made earlier efforts futile, but they concentrated on wetting the grounds near the fire to prevent its spread to the woods and other buildings.

Stephen Todd in his jeep, accompanied by Eric Wiltz, drove up the mountain. They picked up others making the climb afoot, and were the first at the scene.

The fire warden and his men made the climb with a truck two jeeps and a "power wagon," and several private cars also managed to negotiate the road. About 40 men were on the mountain top to

Reds Make Bid for Talk On Problem

Berlin Crisis, Entire German Situation Would Be Considered, They Say

West Blamed Again

Says Allies Failed to Arrive at Any Agreement

Moscow, Oct. 4 (AP) — Russia proposed today that the four-power council of foreign ministers meet to consider the Berlin crisis and the whole German situation.

The Soviet proposal was included in a note to the United States, Britain and France made public by Tass, official Soviet news agency.

The note was a reply to the western powers' notes of Sept. 26 breaking off four-power negotiations on the Berlin crisis and announcing the question would be taken to the United Nations Security Council.

Shortly before the start of Security Council debate on the Berlin crisis, scheduled for 3 p. m. (9 a. m., E.S.T.) today, the Russians insisted the case was not within the jurisdiction of the Security Council.

They contended it was a matter to be settled by the four occupation powers and denied western power statements that the Berlin blockade is a threat to international peace and security.

The note declared: "The United States government's declaration that a situation has arisen which allegedly threatens international peace and security does not correspond with the real state of affairs and constitutes nothing more than a means of pressure and an attempt to use the United Nations for the achievement of its aggressive aims."

The Russians proposed that the directive to the four military commanders in Germany, drawn up after a long series of four-power talks in the Kremlin, should be used as a basis for settling the Berlin situation.

The note detailed the Soviet version of the agreement reached in the Kremlin talks with Soviet Premier Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov and included what it said was the text of the directive.

It blamed the three western powers for failure to reach an agreement to end the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

The note asserted the western powers "are striving in fact to govern in a sense of money and finance also the Soviet occupation zone of Germany in order

Airliner With 21 Is Down at Sea; Flying to Bahamas

Miami, Fla., Oct. 4 (AP) — A twin-engined Charter airliner with 21 persons aboard was "presumed down at sea" today after it sounded distress calls somewhere between Charleston, S. C., and Nassau Bahamas.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration official listed the plane as owned by the New England Air Express Company of Teterboro, N. J., and said "an accident is presumed to have occurred."

The plane's gasoline supply was exhausted at 4:45 a. m. (E.S.T.). It was last heard from, calling the international distress signal "mayday" at 1:44 a. m.

Power Commission Begins St. Lawrence Seaway Study

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Federal Power Commission today begins consideration of a New York state proposal that it be licensed to harness the vast hydroelectric potential of the St. Lawrence river.

The estimated $463,000,000 project, which would be undertaken jointly with the Province of Ontario, stems from a directive issued last April 30 by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee.

At that time, Dewey instructed the state's power authority to negotiate with Ontario on the proposed power development. The two would share the costs and benefits.

His action followed Senate refusal to pass legislation that would have authorized not only construction of the power project but which would have provided 27-foot deep channel—for ocean shipping—from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

Before the proposed power development can become a reality, approval by the International Joint Commission is also required. The commission, which regulates the use of international boundary waters, is composed of United States and Canadian members.

The project, involving construction of a dam and power houses, would be located in the international rapids section of the river — between Massena and Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Engineers estimate that the river, at the latter point, can generate an annual total of 2,200,000 horsepower. This would make available to each New York and Ontario an annual yield of 6,300,000 kilowatt hours of energy.

Both New York and Ontario have said repeatedly that each is in pressing need of the added power.

Petitions to intervene in the case have been filed with the Power Commission by the National St. Lawrence Project Conference, the Aluminum Company of America and the St. Lawrence Power Co.

St. Lawrence Power Co., has generating facilities in the same area that the proposed New York-Ontario plant would be built. The company, a Power Commission spokesman said, is owned by the Aluminum Company of America.

Donovan Declares Highland Citizens Oppose Bridge Plan

And Who, Asks Editor of The Freeman, Are Dutchess Folk to Decide?

Supervisor Jacob Donovan of the town of Lloyd today reiterated a published statement in the Poughkeepsie New Yorker that most Highland area residents favor a toll free Mid-Hudson bridge now and oppose the plan to make that bridge pay for a Kingston-Rhinecliff span.

(Editor's Note: Supervisor Donovan's statement as published in the Poughkeepsie New Yorker is only one attempt on the part of certain Dutchess county interests to bring pressure against the realization of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge. This campaign, it would seem, seeks to serve the interests of one economic section of the Mid-Hudson valley as against another.

Residents of Ulster and Dutchess counties asked Senator Wicks and the then Dutchess assemblyman, Ernest I. Hatfield, to sponsor a bridge bill. This they did, twice. The second time it was signed into law by Governor Dewey.

Dutchess county interests forget that residents of Ulster county other than Highland folk use the Poughkeepsie bridge. Many a tidy dollar from this area has helped pay for that span, but it seems that what's sauce for the goose of Dutchess isn't good fare for the gander of Ulster. Hence, it is apparent that what central and northern Dutchess and Ulster county folk interested in a Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge need is a petition to offset the one Lloyd Democrats plan.

Taxpayers in the most populous section of Ulster county are being asked to give up something they need badly. Must the minority be served in this way?)

He said the matter was discussed at a town board meeting early last week and that "it seemed to be the general feeling of the people here that our bridge toll should be reduced or eliminated, except to pay for maintenance."

He added that there is a movement to start a petition to that effect among Highland residents.

In a statement Saturday night, Donovan asserted that continuation of present bridge tolls was retarding the growth of both Poughkeepsie and Highland.

"If people elsewhere want bridges they should pay for them," he said. He pointed out that many Highland residents work in Poughkeepsie.

Democrat Uses Idea

Added opposition to continuation of tolls on the Mid-Hudson bridge came from Vincent Di Gennaro, Democratic candidate for Dutchess county assemblyman, who spoke to a group of Highland people Friday. He held that a continuation of tolls was an injustice to Dutchess county and Highland residents, and said that the freeing of the bridge tolls is one of the planks in his campaign platform.

Will Send Protest

Thomas J. Phillips, president of the Town of Lloyd Democratic Club, said his organization would protest the plan to make the Highland-Poughkeepsie bridge pay for the proposed Kingston span. A copy of the protest will be sent to George W. Pratt, Highland, recently appointed to the New York State Bridge Authority, he said.

The present bridge legislation, which calls for continuation of tolls until all bridges are debt free, was sponsored by Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston and Senator Ernest T. Hatfield of Dutchess county. Senator Hatfield was serving in the Assembly when the bill was introduced.

Registration Shows 572 Persons Less Than 2 Days in '44

Two More Days Remain for Local Voters to Sign Up for Balloting

Registration of voters in this city continued to drop behind that of four years ago, with the total for the first two days this year 572 less than the total for the first two days in 1944, the last presidential year.

Saturday's registration, according to records at police headquarters, was 3,460, bringing the total for the first two days to 7,044. In 1944, the total for the first two days was 7,616, of which 3,484 registered on the second day.

In 1940, the last peacetime presidential election, the registration on the first two days totaled 8,153, or 1,109 more than for the similar period this year.

There remain two days in which Kingston voters may register. On Friday, October 8, the polls will be open from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m., and on Saturday, October 9, they will be open from 7 a. m. until 10 p. m.

According to the trend in past registration periods, the lowest number of registrants may be expected on next Friday, the third day, and the highest number to register in one day usually is on the last day.

Following is a tabulation of the number of voters who registered Saturday in each election district of the city:

Won't Destroy Shelters

London, Oct. 4 (AP)—Preparedness-minded Britain has stopped general demolition of its wartime air raid shelters. A Home Office spokesman said today that except for shelters which have been condemned as dangerous, all of these refuges from air attack will be left standing for the time being. No general instruction has been issued, the Home Office said, but suspension notices have been sent to "certain areas." The spokesman said no more detailed information was available.

Peruvian Troops Hold Callao Port

Bloody Uprising Smashed; Rebels Driven Out, Captured

Lima, Peru, Oct. 4 (AP)—Government troops held full control over the port of Callao today after smashing a bloody revolt by sailors and civilians.

The insurgents, who seized and used the full firepower of warships and heavily armed naval installations at Callao, Lima's port, launched the revolt early yesterday.

By late last night, government infantrymen, supported by tanks and fighter planes, had rooted the rebels out of their fortified strongholds and apparently had captured them all.

There was no official indication of the number of casualties or of how many persons took part in the revolt. All accounts indicated, however, that the number of dead and wounded was large. An army authority said there were so many casualties that trucks probably would be used to augment ambulances in carrying them away.

The government of President Jose Luis Bustamente Rivero said in a communique it had confirmed that the opposition Aprista party had "inspired and directed" the revolt. The communique said many armed civilians affiliated with Aprista were arrested.

"Comdr. Enrique Aguila Pardo, who is well known because of his Aprista leanings, headed the rebellion aboard some warships," the communique said.

Dewey Will Confer With Dulles on Berlin Crisis at Albany

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey—awaiting a detailed report on the international situation—was described today as so confident of victory he will not alter the measured pace of his presidential campaign.

Back at the New York capitol after a 60-speech western campaign tour, the G.O.P. presidential nominee expects to meet tomorrow with John Foster Dulles, his foreign affairs adviser.

Flying from the Paris meeting of the United Nations, Dulles will give Dewey an intimate view of developments in the Berlin blockade crisis.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) will touch on other aspects of Republican foreign policy in a radio broadcast tonight (8 to 8:30 p. m., E.S.T., CBS). While Dewey had no advance look at Vandenberg's text, the two men have gone to great lengths to make their views coincide.

The Republican presidential nominee would not comment on his 14-day western trip.

But an aide said Dewey regards his prospects so highly four weeks before the election that he has no intention of altering his present campaign course to trade punches with President Truman or any other Democrat.

Dewey has been discussing the issues on what his assistants call "a high plane." Democrats have contended that the G.O.P. nominee talks only in generalities, never gets down to brass tacks.

Taking this criticism in stride,

No Proof of 'Inside' Gain By Speculators, Four Say

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—Four House Republicans said last night they have "not been able to prove" that any of the grain speculators under fire last winter made use of "inside" information.

A second finding—that government buying programs played a major role in rising food prices—brought a hot retort from three House Democrats. They called it "an indirect attack upon the great program of world recovery which the United States has been following since the war."

The seven lawmakers make up the special House committee created to look into charges that administration officials and other commodity speculators had profited from information leaks.

Their majority and minority reports were printed in a single document.

The Republicans, led by Chairman August H. Andresen (Minn), said the nearly 1,200,000,000 bushels of grain shipped overseas during the two years ended last June 30 "was the controlling factor which caused scarcity and higher prices for grains and feed for livestock."

This in turn, the majority report went on, led to smaller supplies of beef, pork, poultry and dairy products.

Furthermore, the government "largely dominated the market price of grain," the Republicans said. They added:

"An examination of speculation during this period shows that several grain speculators sold wheat and other grains short with large profits accruing.

"The committee has not been able to prove that any of the speculators had received advance information from government sources."

The Democrats, headed by Rep. McCormack (Mass.), assistant minority leader, took no issue with the finding on speculation but said:

"It is most regretable that the majority of this committee has seen fit to use the export food program as a 'whipping boy.'"

"We have heard much of the bipartisan nature of our foreign policy, and we had assumed that this was an accepted fact," the minority report said. "It comes as a shock, therefore, to learn that the committee majority has chosen to bring the effectuation of this policy into question."

Deputy Foreign Minister Says Big 4 Parley Should Be Given Issue

Denies Any Block

Also, He Says, Western Charges Ludicrous in Character

Paris, Oct. 4 (AP)—Russia told the United Nations Security Council today it has no right to consider western charges that the Soviet blockade of Berlin is a menace to world peace.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky led off his fight to keep the Berlin issue out of the council's hands. He declared the western demand for U. N. consideration of the dispute was "devoid of any ground, as it does not fall within the scope of the Security Council."

The issue, he said, should be sent to the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers, as a formal note from Moscow proposed earlier today.

Vishinsky declared the U. N. charter forbids the council to discuss anything concerning Germany until the four occupying powers have written a peace treaty for the beaten country.

Taking the argument to the Foreign Ministers' Council, he said, offers the only legal way to settle the problems of Germany, including Berlin which has been under a Soviet land blockade since last June 23.

He said the Berlin problem is closely linked to the whole German problem. He charged that the currency reform in western Germany last June was an "act of aggression" against the Russian occupation authorities and had forced the Russians to take "defensive measures."

Vishinsky declared an American assertion that the Russians are threatening international peace with their blockade "amounts to nothing but a means of pressure x x x a means to carry out the aggressive aims of that government."

Vishinsky denied there was a Soviet blockade of Berlin. A number of the delegates smiled.

The Russian said western charges against Soviet military authorities in Berlin were of "a ludicrous character."

The council finally got to the question of whether to put the western charges on the agenda after an hour of wrangling over whether to have simultaneous or consecutive translation. To the amusement of the crowded public gallery, the delegates finally decided to have both.

Austin Steps Down

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin stepped down from the council presidency immediately after opening the session in favor of Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin gavelled the meeting to order as chairman for October.

The western powers — Britain, France and the United States—pressed the charges before the council in spite of a last-minute Soviet effort to transfer the dispute to the big four council of foreign ministers.

The great hall in the basement of Palais de Chaillot was packed with the biggest crowd ever to attend a meeting of the Security Council.

Immediately after opening the session, Austin said he did not "deem it in accordance with the proper fulfillment of the task of the presidency" (of the council) for the United States delegate to occupy the chair, since the United States is a party to the dispute.

He said the chair would pass, by customary alphabetical rotation, to Argentina. Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia was in his country's seat. There have been hints Argentina also would pass the job for the Berlin dispute.

Russia's call for a four power meeting was interpreted here as an apparent forecast of a demand for a delay in consideration of the Berlin crisis by the council.

Secretary of State Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Nevin conferred this morning with their top advisers on Germany. They planned to meet with Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France this afternoon, while the Security Council is in session.

Other western power officials expressed the view privately that the Russian note was mainly important as a propaganda maneuver. What the Russians apparently want, these officials said, is to impress members of the Security Council that the

Woman's Torso Found in Gully Search Is Begun

Olean, N. Y., Oct. 4 (AP) — Sheriff's men started a thorough search today centered around a gully where the nude torso of a woman was found.

The headless, armless and legless body was discovered yesterday by Leo Baldwin and his brother-in-law, David Clayson. They were looking for a post on which to fasten a mailbox.

The torso was found in a bed of damp leaves 37 feet from Hinsdale Road near Route 16 in the Town of Ischua.

Cattaraugus County Sheriff Morgan Sigel said authorities "believe there is a connection" between the torso and the discovery of two knees and a forearm on a roadside near Wales Center two weeks ago.

Scientific tests are expected to disclose whether the knees and forearm were of the same body as the torso.

Coroner George M. Middleton said the legs had been sawed off the torso, "probably with a fine-toothed saw or hacksaw," about two inches below the torso. The head was severed even with the shoulders and the arms were cut cleanly below the shoulder, he added.

The coroner said the torso had been alongside the road for about a month. The dismembered body probably was carried from an automobile to where it was found, he said. The body was badly decomposed.

Middleton said the body appeared to be that of a woman who probably weighed 130 to 140 pounds before death. He said the torso had "sandy or auburn hair."

Stephen F. Barker Former Saugerties Postmaster Dead

Stephen F. Barker, former Saugerties postmaster, died suddenly at his home in Katsbaan late Saturday night. He would have been 77 years old on October 18.

Mr. Barker was born in Saxton and resided all his life in the town of Saugerties, making his home in recent years in the village of Katsbaan. He retired as postmaster on June 30, 1942, after serving in that capacity for six years. He was succeeded by the present postmaster, John A. Martin.

Since his retirement, Mr. Barker had been employed as superintendent of the Katsbaan Cemetery. He was a member of Ulster Lodge, F. & A. M., and the William H. Raymond Lodge, I.O.O.F.

According to Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, Mr. Barker had been suffering from a heart condition, and Saturday night he felt ill, and as had been his habit, about 11 p. m. went to his front porch to rest until the attack passed on. When he failed to return to his room by about 12:40 o'clock, Coroner Kelly said, his wife went to the porch and found him dead.

Death was due to coronary occlusion, the coroner said.

In addition to his wife, the former Miss Emma Grace Fiero, he is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held from the Seamon Brothers Company, Inc., 104 Partition street, Saugerties, Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be in the Katsbaan Cemetery. Ritualistic services will be held at the funeral home Tuesday at 8 p. m. by the members of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Court Gets Case

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—A direct test of the power of Congress to force a witness to say whether he ever was a Communist was laid before the Supreme Court today as it opened its new term. Film Writer John Howard Lawson asked the court to throw out his conviction of contempt of Congress which is holding over him a year's jail sentence and $1,000 fine. The 53-year-old author of such films as "Smashup" and "Blockade" was convicted in District Court here. His sentence was the maximum under the law. Another writer, Dalton Trumbo, received a similar sentence. Both were allowed to make bond pending appeal.

Meters Bring $3,322

Parking meter receipts collected during the month of September totalled $3,322, bringing the total collected since January 1, this year, to $26,899, according to records at the city treasurer's office. September's collections were slightly lower than the record amounts collected in each of the three summer months. In August, $3,458 was taken in from the meters.

Upstate Figures On Registration Less Than in '44

Albany, N. Y., Oct 4 (AP) The registration of upstate New York voters has fallen behind the pace set in the last presidential year.

The final registration in all counties except New York city and Westchester, was held Friday and Saturday. It will be continued next Friday and Saturday.

Albany, Troy, Cohoes and Plattsburg reported slight gains over [illegible] the first two registration days in 1944, but figures available in other cities showed a [illegible] trend.

A total of 1,207 registrants in Albany represented an increase of [illegible] the comparable 1944 period. Troy's total, 6,041, against [illegible] reported 5,536 compared to 5,436. Plattsburgh had [illegible] registration of 166.

[illegible] the state's second largest city, reported 98,045 for the [illegible] 4,853 less than the 1944 [illegible].

Rochester's weekly registration [illegible] compared with the 1944 [illegible] total of 72,983.

In Syracuse, 16,143 turned out. The comparable 1944 period showed 54,162.

Binghamton's 26,804 was 5,079 less than its previous presidential registration.

Utica had 16,859, compared with 21,096 four years ago.

New York Has Fewer

New York, Octo. 4 (AP) — New York city has 234,595 fewer registered voters than in the last presidential year.

The six-day registration, which ended early yesterday, totaled 3,321,782, which also was 68,678 under the 1940 figure. The 1944 figure of 3,556,377 set a record.

The showing fell far short of the 4,000,000 prepared for by the Board of Elections on the basis of normal growth of the voting population.

Republican and American Labor party leaders interpreted the 1948 slump as reflecting disintegration of Democratic forces in the city and as a stay-at-home vote against President Truman.

The official Democratic reaction was that the figures show the people are not angry at President Truman. Democratic State Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick said "it is axiomatic that when people are dissatisfied, a big protest vote turns out."

Thomas J. Curran, New York secretary of state and Manhattan Republican leader, said the registration picture gives Gov. Thomas E. Dewey a good chance of carrying New York city. The last Republican presidential candidate to carry the Democratic city was Calvin Coolidge in 1924.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio, state chairman of the American Labor party which is supporting Henry A. Wallace for president, predicted the A.L.P. will roll up "a record vote." Long lines at registration places in Marcantonio's upper East Side political stronghold were mainly responsible for holding up completion of the registration until early Sunday morning.

THE RIGHT TO KNOW

A critic of our press who thought of himself as a wit and was probably half right, once said that the average American firmly believes there are only two kinds of newspapers—bad ones, and the kind he would produce if ony he were the editor. Criticism of our press is as natural to Americans as the right to jeer the umpire. But in the wave of cynicism that follows every great war there are scoffers who insist that our press no longer has purpose or meaning. To them the slogan, "Your right to know is the key to all your liberties," adopted as the battle cry for National Newspaper Week in October, is only an empty phrase. Perhaps the validity of the statement can best be defended by citing a specific case.

Americans have been concerned of late by the so-called "Iron Curtain" erected by the Soviets around their own and satellite countries. The Iron Curtain is nothing more than a sealing off of the area from all exchange of information or "intelligence." We have resented that barrier and have interpreted it as a deliberate insult by the Communists. Yet as Professor Robert L. Reynolds of the University of Wisconsin history department told a conference of editors last spring, the Iron Curtain is at least 1,500 years old. It was maintained not only by the Communists, but by the Czars and by the original Mongol invaders. There have been iron curtains in Japan, China, or wherever governing control belongs to an elite group.

The only people in any country who need an unlimited exchange of information are those who rule. In the USSR only a small core of the people have control of policy. They need information, and they get it through business agents, civil and military attaches, and spies. But the vast majority of people, having no voice in government, have no need of such information. Indeed, such information may be dangerous, since it may weaken the power of the controlling group.

In the United States the people rule—and since they are in control of policy, they need, and get, information. Again the cynic gives a faint curl of his upper lip. He points to the Pendergasts, Hagues, Crumps, and the long line of bosses who have manipulated the vote, and he declares that the rule of the people is only an illusion. There have been times, it is true, when popular sovereignty appears to have broken down. But the proof of its strength is in its record. The government of the United States is the world, now that Iceland has changed. In spite of the weaknesses of our system it has proved superior to the most ruthless challengers. It has stood the test because in critical times the people can reject unworthy leaders. They may not know for whom they are voting, but they know in a crisis what they are voting against. No one can long flout public opinion in this country. Public opinion—the voice of the people—is our ultimate rule.

Since the people rule in America, they must have information upon which to base opinion. This does not mean military secrets, diplomatic correspondence, or intelligence, which if made public, would endanger the people's welfare. It does include all information necessary to help our rulers—the people—determine matters of broad policy. Our federal, state, and local governments might furnish this information, but it would lack variety of viewpoint and quick dissemination. Nor could it wrap this information in the sugar coat of entertainment which carries this essential intelligence into the home of almost all our rulers. Only the press—now broadened to include all communications agencies—can perform this function so interestingly and so efficiently.

Until a more effective means of distributing this vital information can be devised, honest editors and publishers can look their fellow citizens squarely in the eye and say, "Your right to know is the key to all your liberties—and that is my business."

FOOTBALL TICKETS

It is not too early to order tickets for that big football game, assuming that you want to see one. The unprecedented attendance at baseball games and other sporting events indicates that football will have a big year, and that seats for the important games will be snapped up early. So be wise; you have been warned.

Boys on vacant lots nowadays play football instead of baseball. It means that summer is over, with fall on hand and the blasts of winter not far away.

'These Days'

DIVISION OF POWER

The Constitution of this country never intended so sharp a division of authority as President Truman seeks to establish among the three branches of government. To Truman, the Executive, the Legislative and the Judicial branches are separate, distinct, non-cooperative and antagonistic. What the Constitution seeks is not an anarchy of quarreling, cantankerous separate governmental sections, but rather a balance of power, an avoidance of overweighting one with too much authority; yet each dependent upon the other.

For instance, Congress passes legislation, but the President must approve or veto the acts of Congress. The President is in charge of Administration, but Congress provides the appropriations. The President collects taxes, but Congress decides how much they are to be and how they are to be spent. The Justices of the Supreme Court are appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, but they may invalidate an act of Congress approved by the President.

This balance of powers with a dovetailing of functions is the particular genius of American government and has safeguarded the American people from tyranny by a President or by a majority or by an overpowering minority.

Recently President Truman wrote a letter to David P. Findling, Associate General Counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, in which he displayed a total misunderstanding of the essence of the American governmental plan:

"In my conference with the National Labor Relations Board on its organization, I informed the members of that board and the counsel that they constituted a part of the Executive Branch of the Government and since the Chief Executive did not expect to interfere in their internal affairs, he expected that they would be immune to pressure from the Legislative Branch of the Government."

The NLRB is not outside the American constitutional system. It does not exist on the moon or Mars. Its members are appointed by the President of the United States with the advice and consent of the Senate. Its appropriations are passed on by the Bureau of the Budget, are submitted for consideration to Congress, are investigated by a Committee of each House, are passed by Congress, signed by the President, paid by the Treasury, in conformity with Congressional decision, out of taxes collected principally by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. At least five committees of Congress may at any time investigate the NLRB with vast powers of subpoena. Its decisions are, in some matters, subject to judicial review.

This is very different from President Truman's concept of any board, bureau, commission, department of government standing far off alone, separate from all else. His error arose from a political desire to hit at Senator Taft, which is not important one way or the other, as the Senator is able to fend for himself, and were this an isolated instance one might let it pass as a sideswipe during a campaign.

But the President has assumed this same attitude in relationship with data needed by Congressional Committees in their investigations. Much of this data exists in the files of Administrative agencies of government. Some of it is now available nowhere else. Mr. Truman adopts the position that he and the Eightieth Congress are having a personal quarrel and that he will provide no data to it, no matter how important it may be from a national standpoint that it should be made available.

Similarly, in spite of the fact that Congress may pass wrong legislation because it lacks the facts which the State Department possesses, he has only provided the Republican majority with a minimum of information on the conduct of our foreign policy —and that despite an agreement to operate a Bipartisan Foreign Policy and the formal designation of John Foster Dulles to represent the Republicans in this relationship.

It is curious that Mr. Truman should assume this attitude, for he started his national career as a senator, served as chairman of an investigating committee, and moved in on Executive branches of government while he acted in that capacity. Apparently, his anger at Congress's unwillingness to accept his leadership on the same terms that it accepted Mr. Roosevelt's leadership has so angered him that his point of view has become distorted.

THE TREATMENT OF EPILEPSY

One of my early recollections is seeing the wife of a prominent citizen, struggling violently, being carried down the aisle at a large gathering. I learned shortly afterward that she was an epileptic and had had a "fit."

After seeing several victims of these seizures, I felt that if I ever had the opportunity of learning the cause of epilepsy and how to cure it, I would do so.

While all the different causes, or partial causes, of epilepsy are unknown, sufficient is known so that in the great majority of cases epileptic attacks can be prevented or kept under fair control.

Until recently epilepsy, in which the patient "had a fit," was considered closely related to insanity; and both patient and family felt that epilepsy carried a stigma like insanity, cancer and certain other disease. Today, it is known that epilepsy is not inherited and in no way related to insanity. It is a common disease.

An epilepic attack, or seizure, is just "a temporary loss of consciousness, occurring without apparent cause, accompanied by muscular movements which may range anywhere from a slight twitching of the eyelids to a violent shaking of the whole body."

Formerly, the great majority of epileptics had to live careful, sheltered lives, as attacks come with but a short warning or no warning at all. This meant that there were only certain occupations open to the epileptics. Employers naturally were afraid of what might happen to the patient himself, but even more of what might happen to the employes near him—aside from damages and interruptions that would occur.

How different is the picture of epilepsy today. Instead of the great majority having to live sheltered lives, physicians know that given care and the remedies now available, 80 out of every 100 persons with seizures can lead practically normal lives.

The treatment that has brought about this great change in the lives of epileptics is two-fold. First, the acid-producing diet in which the patient eats large amounts of fat foods—cream, butter, egg yolk, bacon; second, the use of the barbital drugs.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington — Perhaps because it's buried in a mass of legal documents, or because it contains political dynamite, newspapers have left unnoticed a case in the U. S. District of Columbia court which comes up before Judge Matt Maguire today.

It involves the man who may be Dewey's Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles.

It also shows how the Nazis operated through the Swedes to hide the true ownership of the American Bosch Plant at Springfield, Mass., and how Dulles was involved in the deal.

The story goes back to 1940 when the Germans, knowing war with the United States was inevitable, made a deal with the Stockholm Enskilda Bank to take over the American Bosch plant, valued at $8,000,000, and "cloak" it under Swedish ownership for the duration of the war.

It was provided that the Swedes would give the plant back to the Germans after the war. To "cloak" the plant, the Swedes got a fee of $650,000.

All this was strictly secret. And during the war the Swedes protested that they owned the plant, not the Germans.

But toward the close of the war, the U. S. Army found a false wall in a Stuttgart air-raid shelter, behind which was a box of secret papers regarding the American Bosch deal.

Dulles Would Delay

These showed in detail how Marcus Wallenberg, head of the Enskilda Bank, had come to New York, conferred with Dulles and his law firm, Sullivan and Cromwell, and arranged a voting trust for the German-owned Springfield plant for the balance of the war. Furthermore it was arranged that if George Murane, appointed voting trustee for the company, should die, John Foster Dulles would name his successor.

Later, through a complicated process, the voting trust certificates were placed with a Delaware corporation, "Providentia" owned by the Swedes, and then the shares of this corporation were put in another voting trust controlled by Dulles.

Thus Dulles not only held the voting trust, but drew up the agreement and was also to name Murnane's successor.

This secret agreement remained unknown to the U. S. government all during the war, at a time when Mr. Dulles was acting as foreign-affairs adviser to Governor Dewey and as U. S. adviser to the United Nations. He told no one in the government about it.

Today the matter comes up in Federal Court when the U. S. government will demand that the Wallenbergs of Sweden, star witnesses in the case, be required to come to the United States and testify.

The Dulles law firm has opposed this, and government attorneys charge that Dulles is fighting a delaying action so the case will not be heard until after January when a new Republican administration will control final disposition of the American Bosch plant.

Note—Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, has vigorously urged Dewey not to appoint Dulles as secretary of state, warned that he might not be confirmed by the Senate.

Bipartisan Nepotism

Democratic Congressman Jasper Bell of Missouri, who represents President Truman's home (the Fourth) District, announced this year that he was retiring from Congress. However, what he didn't tell the voters was that he had put his married daughter, Virginia Bussells, back on the payroll for the duration of his term.

Following a nepotism expose last year, the Missourian yanked daughter Virginia off the payroll in a big hurry. This was before he decided to retire. But now that he isn't running for re-election and doesn't have to worry about adverse publicity, Virginia has been reinstated (as of July 15) at $2,400 a year.

Meantime, Republican Rep. Cliff Clevenger of Ohio also is performing some interesting sleight-of-hand in the payroll department. His secretary, Edgar A. Drake, is paid $5,000 and works at the job.

But what Clevenger's constituents don't know is that Drake's wife, Grace, also has been put on the payroll as a full-time employe—salary, $4,500 a year. However, what she does—if anything—around the office is a mystery. As one source close to Clevenger puts it:

"I've known Mr. Clevenger for a number of years and in all that time I've never laid eyes on Mrs. Drake in his office."

Merry-Go-Round

In charge of the House Un-American Activities Committee's search for spies who stole atomic secrets, Congressman John McDowell of Pennsylvania would also like to find out who stole his underwear. Fifteen bucks worth of brand new undies were swiped from him before he had a chance to try them on. . . . George Allen, ex-White House jester, has contributed only $200 to his friend Harry Truman's campaign fund. (Maybe George thinks he did enough when he took Eisenhower out of the race.) . . . Washington's blue-blood Metropolitan Club has decided to snub Pan American Airways' well-greased lobby. It has blackballed Pan Am's lobbyist, popular Bill McAvoy, sometimes called "the Senator" because of his adroit manner on Capitol Hill. Bill had the backing of U. S. Treasurer William A. Julian, but it wasn't enough to put him across. . . . European Relief Administrator Paul Hoffman has passed down word that his organization will keep its books wide open to the public. As a result several companies, which had hoped to do business with the Marshall Plan countries in private, are screaming in protest.

British to Fight Steel Nationalization Attempt

London (AP)—Opponents of socialization are organizing a defense fund to campaign against government plans to nationalize Britain's iron and steel industry. Alfred Edwards, member of Parliament, is organizing the campaign. He was expelled from the Labor Party last spring after he publicly criticized iron and steel nationalization, one of the projects the government hopes to accomplish before the 1950 general elections.

The defense fund plans to conduct its campaign through public meetings, publications and a film on steel showing how the industry has reached a high rate of production under private enterprise.

Russia Will Not Risk War as Long as Inferior Position Regarding Atom Bomb Exists

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 4—Russia is afraid of the atomic bomb—and she will not risk war as long as she is in an inferior position with respect to that most powerful of all weapons man has ever known.

This is the inference being derived from Andrei Vishinsky's impassioned speech at Paris. If Russia really knew how to make the atomic bomb in quantity the Soviet spokesman would have exhibited far less solicitude than he did about America's possession of the weapon.

The Russian statement that America no longer has a "monopoly" on the bomb appears to be a quibble on words. No nation, to be sure, has any "monopoly" on the secret of the atomic bomb's composition—science has always known what the splitting of the atom could mean to war—but no nation today except the United States possesses the industrial "know-how" and capacity to manufacture in quantity the bombs that can rule the world. Nor has any nation but the United States actually put the bomb to use on a target without being intercepted on its journey to the target.

If Russia fears the bomb, why then does she harass the United States in Berlin and elsewhere? This question is related to the fact that Russia knows the United States will not go to war over the issues that have arisen thus far in Berlin. Annoying and irritating as these issues are, they do not constitute as yet a provocation to war—especially when the United States can make many other moves without actual war. Russia is well aware of American strength and potentiality as well as the details of the pronouncements of Dewey and Truman on our bipartisan foreign policy.

Why then doesn't Russia quit the U.N. and go it alone? The best answer developed here is that Russia does not dare leave the U.N. because this would play directly into the hands of the western powers who could then form not only a military alliance but actually put into being an international police force with bases in Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, western Germany and Italy. Russia is not likely to give the western powers an excuse to train large land armies for possible invasion of Soviet territory some day with Russia meanwhile living in fear of an atomic war.

So, despite the outward maneuvers of defiance and harassment over the Berlin blockade, the Russians aren't likely to provoke a war. Their latest move in ordering the Russian military commander in Berlin to announce his desire to resume discussions on the basis of the Stalin directive of August 30th is proof that the last thing the Russians would like to see is a breakup of negotiations that would give the western powers a reason to develop a system of military defenses. For this would mean an active military force with adequate equipment already in Europe instead of 3,000 miles away as was the case at the beginning of each of the other two world wars.

The oft-heard suggestion that Russia hopes to bankrupt America with a policy of worry that costs the United States about 15 billions or more a year for arament ignores the fact that the best way to keep America's inflation going for several years is for our government to continue to bolster the economy by spending nearly half its budget—five billions for European aid and 15 billions for armament every year for the next five years at least. Also Russia must know that when total war comes, labor and resources are converted to war use here without regard to cost or public debt. The monetary unit is devalued and the productive forces of the nation are mobilized as prices and wages are brought under a wartime control.

How long can the sparring go on? Until fear and distrust are overcome on both sides. This takes time and mostly an exercise of patience in diplomacy. The biggest difficulty to overcome is the human tendency to get mad—to force a showdown. The Russians are trying in their debate to create an impression of strength but they only betray in fact their weakness. The "cold war" will go on until the Russian people, tired of their low standard of living and hardships, learn that their rulers are not preventing war but are pursuing a course that could force upon them war and atomic destruction.

The "iron curtain" isn't impenetrable at all so far as the Balkan satellite states are concerned and it isn't as impenetrable inside Russia either as most people think. For the thoughtful people of Russia can read as much between the lines of speech of Vishinsky at Paris as can the outside world.

Washington, Oct. 3—The power of the invisible government which Felix Frankfurter's cult set up within the government of the United States after he had boldly wangled his own appointment to the Supreme Court is strongly suggested by information which has been revealed this summer.

It has been known for years, of course, that Frankfurter's tricky Harvard law proteges were spotted in influential places in practically all of the experimental radical bureaus of the New Deal.

There were so many of them and they were so impudent and flippant in tossing around the rights and aspirations of the American people that their existence as a distinct clique or corps was commonly appreciated. In those days, General Hugh Johnson amiably referred to them as Frankfurter's Happy Hot Dogs. If he had lived, Johnson probably would be less tolerant of their mischief today. He was, first and last, a patriot, although he had a juvenile streak which moved him to go traipsing after the Pied Pieper who was going to cure everything by conquering fear and who flattered him by selecting him to administer the Fascist N.R.A. But neither did the rest of the people nor even the sourest skeptics in Washington quite appreciate the sinister nature of Frankfurter's silent process of penetration.

We learned on authority early this summer in the memoirs of Harold Ickes that Frankfurter did not wait for distinction to come to him but went campaigning for a job on the Supreme Court in a time when political and ideological prejudices were to be substituted more and more for law. His reputation was synthetic and almost entirely the result of publicity and posturing on noisy issues. Long ago, Theodore Roosevelt had called him to time charging him with willful failure to disclose material truth in the Bisbee deportation case. He had a great claque at Harvard and he got the benefit of Harvard's ancient prestige in a day before that prestige had been turned into sordid notoriety by the disclosures of the Thomas Committee on Un-American Activities.

Actually, Frankfurter was coarse, mysterious and superficial and I have interviewed one former member of his class who would say that he taught more lawyer-craft than law. He would say so if he had to. But, for the time being, he would prefer not

Mrs. Raymond Rignall played traditional wedding music and wedding marches. Miss Marjorie Hinkley sang Because and The Lord's Prayer. The altar was decorated with gladioli and lighted candles. White satin ribbon was used to mark the pews.

Mr. Lyons gave his daughter in marriage. Her colonial style white slipper satin gown was made with chantilly lace yoke and collar, fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves, skirt with panier drapes edged in chantilly lace and a long sweeping train also edged with chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was edged with the lace and caught to a tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and swansonia.

Her sister, Miss Audrey Lyons, as maid of honor wore a colonial style gown of blue faille taffeta with matching mitts and bonnet and carried yellow roses. The other attendants, also sisters, wore similar ensembles; Mrs. Wayne Murdock of Shokan in raisin faille taffeta with bouquet of pink roses; Mrs. Allan Drake, green gown with red roses; Miss Fay Lyons, a peacock blue gown, pink roses; Miss Janet Lyons, dusty pink gown, red roses. Christine Roeber of Long Island, flower girl, wore an aqua gown and carried an old fashioned bouquet of red and white rosebuds.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

TWIN BRIDESMAIDS IDEAL

A letter says: "The bride's only sisters (twins in their teens) are to be maids of honor, but there is a best friend who always has been promised "maid-of-honor" position should she not marry first. She will be terribly hurt if omitted. So, the only way we know would be to have three maids of honor. Can you make a better suggestion?"

The answer to this is very simple: The promise to the friend should, of course, be kept and since more than one attendant of honor is impossible, the twins can serve as ideally matching bridesmaids.

Including Address on Business Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Though you have said your subject is not business, I'm sure you're the one who can advise us about our business cards. Our shop is called The Wayside Shop—Antiques. My husband and I together own and run the business. We believe that our names also should appear on the cards, which now include nothing but the above shop name and the address. How should the names appear and where?

Answer: Mr. and Mrs. John C. Doe, in parenthesis, in smaller letters directly under the shop name. This is because if you used John and Helen Doe, strangers would not know whether you were Mrs. Doe or John Doe's sister.

Gift for Your Business

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm going to the hospital for several weeks and will not have any private nurses. I'm wondering what to do about the nurses who will look after me? Shall I give each one of them a gift when I leave, or possibly after I return home, or just what is customary?

Answer: Although gifts are not necessarily expected under the circumstances you describe, thoughtful remembrances always are appreciated by all of us.

Paper Plates and Napkins at Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: What is your opinion of using paper plates and napkins at wedding receptions?

Answer: Of course linen napkins and china or glass plates are to be preferred, but when a sufficient number of these would be out of the question, the substitution of paper items would be taken for granted.

HOME BUREAU

Nutrition School

Miss Terese Wood, specialist from the College of Home Economics, pointed out the necessity of careful planning of meals to keep costs low and family nutrition high at a recent food and nutrition training school conducted for 18 unit leaders of the Ulster County Home Bureau.

"The magic key for good meals is always wise planning and preparation," Miss Wood said. She continued, "good meals just don't happen. To save money on meals requires even more planning, but planning is worthwhile in money saved and the satisfaction of knowing the family's health is protected."

Miss Wood used the basic food chart to explain how the homemaker could be certain that her purchases were used to good advantage nutritionally.

She demonstrated dishes for two low cost family dinners—stuffed shoulder of lamb, braised and barbecued short ribs of beef, minted apple sauce, cabbage and pepper salad, quickly prepared desserts including tapioca pudding with various toppings, apple-butterscotch pudding and scalloped apples. Supplies for all these dishes are easily available, in good supply and nutritious, she said.

Miss Wood summarized some of the factors that affect costs: following the food marketing information to know what foods are good buys, purchasing by grade, buying by weight, buying good in season, cooking well selected foods in a way that retains food value and that results in appetizing attractive dishes the family will enjoy, she remarked.

First Dutch Church House, 52 Main street, Tuesday at 4 p. m. Mrs. Raymond Rignall is the director.

GOLDEN SUNSET

I am standing enraptured in my garden of flowers,
Thrilling to a sunset in day's dying hours
Golden clouds, like rainbows, are slowly drifting by
And silvery stars are peeking from beneath a smiling sky.
Across the green valley, beyond mountains of blue,
God painted a picture in a golden hue
Some clouds are tinted a dusty rose
A delicate pink for some others He chose
So beautiful and bright, is its radiant glow
It makes me gay and lighthearted just watching below
And the loveliest light from a sky so bright
Enhances the splendor of colors at night.
To me it seemed like heaven had opened its gate
As long shadows now are falling upon my garden path
As the sun now is sinking deep down in the west
My heart and soul are happy as I lay down to rest prevent spread of the fire to the woodlands. Equipment included 12 five-gallon "Indian pumps."

The bungalow was about 150 feet east of the Mountain House, which is of concrete structure. Three other bungalows are about 150 feet away from the one destroyed.

Three young men were assigned to stand watch at the property until this morning as a safeguard against a later outbreak of the fire. They were: Robert Reynolds, Bearsville; Alvin Bonesteel and Leo Krotty of Wittenberg. Robert Bauschmeur of Woodstock, delivered them food and supplies in his power truck.

The fire attracted crowds from the area to the scene and many cars went up the mountain as far as Meade's Mountain House. Some left their cars there and walked to the scene of the blaze.

Investigation Begins

The Mountain House and its other buildings are on a property owned by G. A. Newgold. The buildings have not been in use for many years.

State Trooper Metzer of the State Police B.C.I., and Trooper Ray Dunn of Phoenicia began an investigation of the fire yesterday. Trooper Dunn said today that he was amazed at the extent of damage on the property apparently resulting of vandalism over a period of many years.

Two alarms were sounded for the Zena fire late Sunday morning. The first was at about 10:30 a. m., and the other about 15 minutes later.

Woodstock firemen and other volunteers fought the fire for about an hour and prevented it from spreading to the woods and other properties in the area.

Firemen said the blaze was started by a man who had stopped his car along the road to light a pipe. He dropped the match on the grass and before he left the scene, saw the grass burning.

The man made attempts to quench the blaze, the report said, and when it got beyond his control, the firemen were notified from a nearby house.

The area burned was from 150 to 200 feet from the nearest house, but it was considerably closer to a heavily wooded section.

Doe Is Traffic Victim

New York city marked up a different kind of traffic victim today—a 180-pound doe. Army Sgt. Lawrence Gendron of Fort Dix, N. J., was driving along Henry Hudson Parkway in upper Manhattan when a deer leaped a fence lining the road and landed directly in the path of his car. The deer fell to the road, stunned by the collision. An A.S.P.C.A. ambulance sped the animal to an association shelter. Attendants said its condition was fair.

25,000 March in 12th Annual Pulaski Parade

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—Approximately 25,000 persons marched on Fifth avenue yesterday in the 12th annual Pulaski Day parade which, like those of previous years, was partly a demonstration against Soviet Russia.

The parade watched by a police estimate of 240,000, was in observance of the 200th birthday anniversary of Casimir Pulaski, Polish general, who was killed while serving with the Colonists in the American revolution.

A number of floats and placards carried anti-Soviet slogans.

Mayor William O'Dwyer, who was among the officials in the reviewing stand, told a newsman that the parade "pinpoints Poland's present struggle for freedom."

The marchers represented Polish-American veterans' organizations, patriotic societies, church and community groups of New York state, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Russia Tells

Soviet Union is still willing to settle things on a friendly basis.

Moscow dispatches said a Russian note to the three western nations was delivered to the three western embassies in Moscow shortly after midnight. The note called for the foreign ministers' meeting, argued that the Security Council has no jurisdiction in the Berlin dispute, and blamed the West for causing the Berlin crisis.

It said the foreign ministers should discuss the entire German situation as well as the Berlin case.

The three western powers have said in the past they are not willing to discuss the German situation as a whole until the Russians lift their blockade of Berlin.

The Russian note was a reply to the three western powers, who notified the Soviet government September 26 they were breaking off direct four-power negotiation and were putting the case before the council.

The Moscow note did not suggest a place or date for the proposed foreign ministers' council meeting. A Moscow dispatch pointed out, however, it was apparent the Russians would agree to a Paris meeting, since three of the four power foreign ministers already are here. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov did not come to Paris for the U.N. autumn meeting.

If the Berlin case finally gets full consideration by the council, there were indications the Russians would veto or ignore any decision the U.N. makes.

to deprive the U.S.S.R. of its legal rights also in this part of Germany and in the end to evict the Soviet Union from there."

The Soviets claimed the American notes and statements on the four-power negotiations had seriously distorted the content of the Moscow talks, the statements made by Stalin, and of vital portions of the negotiations, and also had omitted essential information.

The Soviet note concluded:

"The Soviet government proposes that the agreed directive of August 30 to the commanders in chief in Germany be recognized as an agreement between the U.S.S.R., the United States, Great Britain and France on the basis of which the situation in Berlin must be settled.

"The Soviet government proposes to call together the Council of Foreign Ministers in order to review the situation in Berlin and also the question of Germany as a whole in correspondence with the Potsdam Agreement of the four powers."

The note said "the problem of the Berlin situation is closely connected with that of Germany as a whole, with the dismemberment of Germany, and with the creation of a separate government in western Germany . . ."

In reviewing the Kremlin talks the note said "Premier Stalin expressed the insistent wish that the governments of the U.S.A., Great Britain and France should postpone fulfillment of the London decisions regarding the establishment of a government of the western part of Germany until representatives of the U.S.S.R., the U.S.A., Great Britain and France could meet together to discuss the question of Germany as a whole."

The Russians listed a long series of grievances against the western powers, including establishment of the British-American Bizone, separate currency reform in the western occupation zones, and the plan for setting up a western German government.

Crops Exceed 1947

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4 (AP)—New York's harvest of feed grains this year exceeded the 1947 output by 64 per cent. The State Agriculture Department said yesterday that preliminary estimates of the 1948 crop of oats, barley, buckwheat and corn for grain showed more than 700,000 tons harvested. The 1947 crop was 450,000 tons. The state's 1948 crop of 12,205,000 bushels of wheat and 285,000 bushels of rye amounted to 374,000 tons, a joint federal-state report said. A total of 286,000 tons of the so-called bread grains were harvested last year.

National Fire Prevention Week Observance

Four Hazards Cause Half of Home Fires

If only four structural fire hazards were eliminated, the number of home fires would be cut in half, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said today, continuing his campaign in support of Fire Prevention Week, October 3-9.

Quoting statistics compiled by the National Fire Protection Association, Chief Murphy said that faulty electrical wiring, equipment and appliances and the misuse of electricity cause about 70,000 fires a year; defective heating equipment, 48,000 fires; defective chimneys and flues, 31,000 fires, and combustible roofing, 29,000 fires.

"These defects are inexcusable," Chief Murphy added. "I say that because they are defects which can be remedied and which should be remedied by every householder. It's impossible for me to imagine a person who doesn't have concern for his own safety and the safety of his family, yet I know that many local residents are indifferent to the hazards which are a very real threat to their lives."

Fires killed 11,000 persons last year and cost the United States about $700,000,000, the fire department head explained. He said that losses for the first of this year indicate the fire toll for 1948 will be just as great as the record 1947 figure.

As given by Chief Murphy, N.F.P.A. recommendations for removing the four hazards which cause half of all home fires are:

1. Be certain that electrical wiring is installed correctly and is of sufficient capacity for appliances which might be acquired in the future as well as for present electrical equipment. Plenty of outlets are necessary. Repair defective equipment and replace frayed cords.

2. Install heating plants properly and make sure they are adequately safeguarded. The heating plant should be situated in a separate room with fire-resistive walls. Floor joists above the heating plant should be covered with plaster, gypsum board or other fire-resistant material. Clean the heating plant at least once a year.

3. Use fire-retardant roofing. Wood shingle roofing was the third-ranking cause of fire a few years ago but now has dropped to seventh or eighth place. The reason for fewer roof fires is that hundreds of communities have outlawed combustible roofing by adopting building codes which specify the use of fire-retardant roofing such as asphalt shingles. Wood shingle roofing is perfect tinder for flying sparks but fire-retardant roofing will not be kindled into flame by chimney sparks.

4. Be certain that chimneys and flues are fire safe. Chimney foundations should rest on the ground, and woodwork should not touch a chimney at any place. Like heating plants, chimneys should be cleaned thoroughly every year.

90 Per Cent of All Fires Preventable

National Association Offers Recommendations

Ninety per cent of the fires which last year killed 11,000 persons and cost about $700,000,000 can be prevented by eliminating simple, common fire hazards, according to the National Fire Protection Association, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week, October 3-9.

N.F.P.A. recommendations are:

1. Be careful never to discard lighted cigarettes or matches. Do not smoke in bed. Keep matches out of the reach of small children.
2. Clean up combustible debris such as papers, magazines, rags, broken furniture.
3. Use only safe cleaning fluids.
4. Use fire-retardant material such as asphalt shingles on roofs.
5. Repair electrical equipment promptly and replace frayed wiring and cords.
6. Install heating plants and chimneys properly and clean them thoroughly at least once a year.

Three Persons Injured

New York, Oct. 4 (AP) — Three persons were injured in a fire which broke out on the fourth floor of a six-story, 36-family tenement (132 East 112th Street) today. Fire officials said the blaze began in a front apartment of the building and spread upward to the fifth and six floors. Firemen quickly brought the flames under control.

Kingston's Modern Equipment

The Kingston Fire Department today has in service its most modern equipment in its history. Two new pumpers and one new aerial truck have been received since the first of this year, and another new aerial truck is on order.

Pictured above at upper left is Engine 1 in front of the Central station on East O'Reilly street. Upper right is Engine 2 at the Cornell station on Abeel street. In the center group is Engine 3, shown at left, in front of the Wiltwyck station, and Engine 4, right, at the A. H. Wicks Engine Company house on Wiltwyck avenue. The lower picture shows the newest addition to the department, the 85-foot aerial ladder truck now at Central fire station.

The complete list of fire apparatus owned by the city consists of five pumping engines, one of which is in reserve; three aerial trucks, one of which has been retired and will be used for parts; five hose trucks, three of them equipped with booster tanks; one fire alarm service truck; one emergency truck with floodlighting system and one chief's car.

Members of the Board of Fire Commissioners are Frederick C. Harder, president, Richard Riseley and Henry F. Kelsch. Officers of the paid department are Joseph L. Murphy, chief; Harold Sanford, James Brett and George Matthews, deputy chiefs; Edward H. Albrecht, Joseph M. Hallinan, Wright Maines, William J. Geary, Edwin Murphy, and Julius Buchholtz, captains; Charles V. Brown, superintendent of motors and Marshall G. Miller (on leave of absence), fire alarm superintendent.

The paid firemen are Clarence Barber, Joseph A. Cornelske, Joseph A. Diamond, Joseph J. Disch, James M. Hutton, Walter F. Madajewski, Clarence V. Maines, Edward J. Noble, Harry Richter, Richard R. Weeks, Fred A. Williams, Daniel V. Noble, John A. Carle, Arthur J. Golnek, Albert C. Hutton, Howard Myer, Joseph J. Miles, Robert Hardwick, Philip Ahl, Glyndon Southard, Edwin Van Etten, Philip H. Maines, Robert Schatzel, Frank B. Hornbeck, Francis T. Coughlin, Robert J. Langling, Francis T. Argulewicz, Edward G. Albrecht, James L. McElrath, George T. McKeon, Robert L. Maines, Lewis J. Varga and Howard S. Whitaker. Also Clayton A. Stalter serving on a temporary appointment.

The dispatchers, the men who take the telephoned alarms and send out the nearest available equipment to a given location, ar Leo B. Cragan and Eugne Scharp.

$700,000,000 Fire Bill in '47

Record Loss by Fire Equals Assessment in Four States

The record fire loss of approximately $700,000,000 equalled the combined assessed property valuations of the entire states of Kansas, Vermont, New Mexico and Wyoming.

That statement comes from the National Fire Prevention Association, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week, October 3-9. The Kingston Fire Department is cooperating in the week-long campaign in an effort to reduce the number of local fires.

The $700,000,000 fire bill in 1947, the N.F.P.A. reports, also was approximately equal to:

The combined budgets of 19 states—Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

All the money on deposit in all the banks of Maine.

All United States income taxes — individual plus corporation — collected during the fiscal year 1947 in Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Dakota and Vermont.

The value of every acre of farm land and every farm building in Oregon.

In support of Fire Prevention Week, Fire Chief Murphy asserted, "Bad habits are the primary cause of the enormous number of tragic fires. Simply because Americans refuse to learn to recognize fire hazards and how to eliminate them, they gamble with their lives, their jobs and their homes."

Chief Murphy endorsed this fire prevention program of the N.F.P.A.:

1. Stop careless smoking habits. Smoking in bed and discarding lighted cigarettes or matches are high on the list of human faults which lead to fires.
2. Use only safe cleaning fluids. Home dry cleaning with gasoline is inviting trouble.
3. Be careful with matches. Children playing with matches re-

Indians and Red Sox Wind Up in American League's First Tie

Parnell and Lemon Probable Hurlers In One-Game 'Sudden Death' Playoff

(By The Associated Press)

"Sudden death" confronts the Cleveland Indians and the Boston Red Sox today.

The Indians and Red Sox are scheduled to clash in Boston in a one game do-or-die playoff for the championship of the American League.

This unprecedented American League event came about yesterday when the Indians and Red Sox finished the regular season in a tie for the pennant.

The Indians began the day's activities a game ahead of the Sox but dropped a 7-1 decision to the Detroit Tigers while the Red Sox mauled the defending world champion New York Yankees, 10-5.

Both Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland and Joe McCarthy of Boston declined to name their starting pitchers for today's deciding game, slated to begin at 1:30 p. m., E.S.T.

Said McCarthy after the Red Sox win: "I had everybody working in the bullpen this afternoon and I haven't the ghost of an idea who I'll start tomorrow." Best guess is that either Ellis Kinder (10 -"), a righthander, or Lefty Mel Parnell (15-8) will work with Denny Galehouse (8-7) a dark-horse.

Three Indian Choices

Boudreau said: "My starter will be Bob Feller, Gene Bearden or Bob Lemon. There will be no announcement of my starting pitcher until he steps on the rubber." There's an outside chance Bob Muncrief will get the nod. Muncrief was pretty tough on the Sox while pitching for the St. Louis Browns.

This is the first time in its history that the American League has had to stage a playoff to decide a pennant. The National League established the major league precedent in 1946 when the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers finished the campaign tied for the lead. The Cards won the best-two-out-of-three playoff by winning two straight games.

Series Opens Wednesday

No matter which team wins today the World Series will open in Boston Wednesday with the National League's champion Braves entertaining the American League winner.

Bob Feller was entrusted with the job yesterday of nailing down Cleveland's first pennant since 1920 but the big righthander just didn't have it.

Feller, striving for his 20th win and seventh straight, was pounded from the hill in the third inning when the Tigers scored four runs to sew it up.

The four runs were more than enough for Prince Hal Newhouser, crack Detroit lefthander. Newhouser stopped the Indians on five hits in winning his 21st game of the season.

Yank Hurlers Flop

A big third inning rally also highlighted the Red Sox victory before 31,301 at Boston.

The Yanks nicked starter Joe Dobson for single runs in each of the first two innings but Rookie Jim Porterfield couldn't hold the lead.

The Yanks drove Dobson out with a two run rally in the fifth to make it a 3-1 game in favor of the Sox. However, Raschi folded in the sixth, yielding four runs on five hits.

The Yanks' Joe DiMaggio, limping along with a bad charley horse, rapped out four hits, two of them doubles and batted in three runs.

In the other American League games the Washington Senators downed the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-2, and the Chicago White Sox beat the St. Louis Browns, 10-5, in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was called at the end of eight innings because of darkness, with the score tied, 2-2.

The Braves tuned up for the World Series by trouncing the New York Giants, 11-1. Johnny Mize socked his 40th homer for the Giants to tie Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh for the circuit home run leadership for the second straight year. Kiner and Mize walloped 51 homers apiece last year.

Although beaten 4-3 by the Chicago Cubs, the St. Louis Cardinals clinched second place as the Brooklyn Dodgers also lost, 4-2, to the Philadelphia Phillies. The Dodgers, defending National League champions, finished a game behind the Red Birds.

The Cincinnati Reds, behind the two-hit pitching of Johnny Vandermeer, shaded the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1-0. The win enabled the Reds to wind up in seventh place, a half game ahead of the Cubs.

Saints Win Title

Columbus, O., Oct. 4 (AP)—St. Paul won the right to represent the American Association in the Little World Series by defeating Columbus, 5-3, here yesterday in the seventh game of their final playoffs. The Saints will take on Montreal, International League winners in the Junior World Series. The two Brooklyn farm clubs open in St. Paul tomorrow.

BOUDREAU WALKS ALONE

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland Indians manager, is all alone as he walks off the field in Cleveland after his team lost their chance to clinch the American League pennant by dropping a 7-1 decision to the Detroit Tigers. The two teams will meet in a playoff game in Boston to decide the pennant. (AP Wirephoto)

Williams Bats .370

Chicago, Oct. 4 (AP)—Ted Williams enters today's dramatic Boston-Cleveland pennant-playoff as the American League's 1948 batting champion.

Through yesterday's games, the Red Sox belter had posted a .370 mark, highest made by an A.L. batting king since 1941. In that year, Williams won the first of his four III crowns with a phenomenal .406. He slammed .356 in 1942 and won with .343 last year.

Today's playoff will count in player statistics for the season, so Williams will have a chance to add another point or so on his average.

Been sitting here an hour trying to compose some deathless line for a Monday eye-opener. . . . Just couldn't find one. . . . Maybe our mind was wandering up to Fenway Park. . . . Who said the National League had the corner on all the old-fashioned pennant races. . . . The football season opens in Kingston Friday night and the eventual DUSO pennant winner could emerge from the K.H.S.-Middletown fracas. . . . With a break in weather, that new scoreboard and a new esprit de corps at Burke Hill, a likely mob of 4,500 might turn out for the 1948 home opener.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

Baseball has some sentiment, but very little. . . . How about those Bosox who were quoted as saying they wished Heath's fracture was "all the way up to his neck." . . . Just because Heath and his teammates were rooting for Cleveland in the American . . . That's logical enough, big park, a baseball-maddened town and a juicier World Series check. . . . The interesting sidelight of Father Herdegen's brilliant play in the Twaalfskill club championships: He was called on at the last moment "just to fill out the bracket of 16." . . . Few anglers realize that October is one of the best fishing months of the year. . . . The weed beds have started to recede and the cold clear water seems to put added vigor into all species of fish—and the weather isn't too bad if you wear your "woolies". . . . Four out of five women haters are women. . . . Don't ask us why, just take our word for it.

One of the finest projects sponsored by the Conservation Department is the boys' summer camp at DeBruce, the site of the new fish hatchery in the Catskills. . . . 115 boys from all over the state attended this camp during three 10-day periods Ulster county sponsors of boys at the camp this summer were various Fish and Game clubs, the East Kingston Rod and Gun Club, Lake Katrine, Lloyd, Milton, New Hurley and Saugerties. The boys are given the best possible instruction in all phases of conservation work and a royal outing at the same time.

Baugh's Passing Routs Giants, 41-10

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—Professional football, rocking along in the wake of baseball's hottest pennant race, comes up with a pair of first class attractions of its own this week.

Chicago's unbeaten National League rivals—the Bears and the champion Cardinals—meet tonight in Comiskey Park.

Tomorrow night in Baltimore the All-America Conference pits the champion Cleveland Browns against the Baltimore Colts.

The All-America Conference played only one game yesterday with Buffalo handing the Brooklyn Dodgers their fifth straight loss, 31-21.

In the National League Washington surprised the New York Giants, 41-10; Green Bay rolled over Detroit, 33-21; Pittsburgh defeated Boston, 21-14, and Los Angeles staged a three-touchdown last period rally to gain a 28-28 tie with Philadelphia.

Old man Sammy Baugh stole the Washington headlines again as he passed for two touchdowns and scored one himself on a quarterback sneak.

Big Nine, Notre Dame Heading for Big Year

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—The middle west, long an incubator for stout college football machines, has hatched another bunch of toughies—but they threaten to rub each other out before one can make a bid for national honors.

They're loaded in the midlands this year, with teams like Notre Dame, Michigan, Northwestern, Minnesota and Ohio State all acting up in early games. But strength appears evenly distributed.

This week Northwestern, the Big Nine's newest wonder team after that 21-0 shellacking of Purdue, plays unbeaten Minnesota. Purdue, which earlier tossed a scare into Notre Dame, takes on Michigan.

Notre Dame and Michigan shared the unofficial national championship last year on the basis of two Associated Press polls.

Army Rated Highly

Elsewhere around the country these teams stepped to the fore as the young season swung boisterously into October:

East—Army, Pennsylvania, Penn State.

South—North Carolina and Georgia Tech.

Southwest—Southern Methodist and Arkansas.

Far West—Nevada and California.

Last Saturday's major surprise was Northwestern's triumph over Purdue. The seasoned Boilermakers the week before had held Notre Dame to a 28-27 squeak and had been labeled as the Western Conference "team to beat."

Purdue Coach Stu Holcomb said his athletes experienced a "letdown" against the Wildcats and intimated they'd bound back this week.

Big Nine Sizzles

Ohio State and Michigan, meanwhile, added to Western Conference prestige by continuing the Indian sign over Pacific coast rivals.

Ohio State humbled Southern California, 20-0, and Michigan toppled Oregon, a west coast favorite, 14-0. Notre Dame breezed to a 40-0 triumph over Pittsburgh. Minnesota showed a lot of power in toppling Nebraska, 39-13.

In the east Army continued to ride high although its second game opposition wasn't too rugged. The Cadets ran over Lafayette, 54-7.

Pennsylvania and Penn State, two of the 1947 unbeatens, made successful debuts. Penn trounced Dartmouth, 26-13. Penn State, the east's defending titlist, lashed Bucknell, 35-0.

Three Big Upsets

In three upsets, Cornell stunned Navy, 13-7; Harvard defeated Columbia, 33-24, and Brown tripped Princeton on Joe Condon's last minute field goal, 23-20.

North Carolina, with Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice at the throttle, kept its championship hopes alive by whipping Georgia, 21-14. The Southeastern Conference favorite, Georgia Tech, edged past Tulane, the club that earlier stopped Alabama, 13-7.

All-America Doak Walker paced Southern Methodist's southwest champions to a 41-6 victory over Texas while Arkansas moved into contention by tripping Texas Christian, 27-14.

California, which opened with a conquest of Navy, added St. Mary's to its string, 20-0. Nevada, rated by many as the best team in the far west, scored over San Francisco Sunday for its second success 26-7.

Irish on Spot

Notre Dame's winning streak will be tested this week by Michigan State, which held Michigan to close terms in the season opener.

Other topflight contests include Columbia at Yale, S.M.U. at Missouri, Oklahoma against Texas at Dallas, North Carolina at Wake Forest, Wisconsin at California, Rice at Southern California and Washington at U.C.L.A.

8-Second Rule, Heavier Gloves Among Changes

Sweeping reforms designed to insure maximum protection for amateur boxers were approved at the 20th annual convention of the Adirondack A.A.U. at the Stuyvesant Hotel here yesterday.

The new rules will be in effect Thursday night for the municipal auditorium.

Five important changes, one of which was suggested by Joe Kelly of The Freeman, are:

1. The eight-second rule will prevail on all knockdowns. An eight-count is automatic with every knockdown.
2. All boxers will wear new regulation protective equipment.
3. The weight of gloves has been increased from 10 ounces up to 160 pounders, and 12 ounces for boxers over 160 pounds.
4. Padding on ring floor will be increased from one inch to one and one-half inches.
5. A boxer suffering a knockout will be automatically suspended for 30 days, unless he secures waiver from medical officer and inspector.

The proposal to change the weight of gloves was suggested by Joe Kelly.

Several other important matters including the election of officers occupied the attention of some 50 delegates. Dr. Saul Goldfarb of B'nai B'rith, a newly elected vice-president of the Adirondack A.A.U., served as toastmaster.

Principal speakers were Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who gave the official welcome. Abe Streifer, president of B'nai B'rith, welcomed the delegates, as official host. Dr. Goldfarb also introduced Richard Kalish, Dr. Murray Greene and Arthur Ewig, officers of B'nai B'rith; Dick McCarthy, WKNY sportscaster; and Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor.

Bobsled Ace Honored

Francis Tyler of Lake Placid, who drove the U. S. four-man bobsled team to victory in the winter Olympics at St. Moritz, was named the Adirondack district's "Athlete of the Year."

Francis Callahan, of Schenectady, was re-elected president. Other officers are: Mark Randall, Hamilton; Richard Harrison of Amsterdam, and Dr. Saul Goldfarb, Kingston, vice-presidents; William Leonard, Schenectady, treasurer; and George Bittner, Schenectady, secretary.

Utica was voted the 1949 convention.

The Adirondack group voted to sponsor a world's championship bobsled event at Lake Placid this winter. Eight or ten teams from all over the world are expected to compete.

Wicks Praises Group

Praising the Adirondack association for its splendid record, Sen. Wicks said he was deeply interested in sports and activities such as those sponsored by the A.A.U.

"The proper supervision of sports and recreation for youth builds character," Sen. Wicks said. "A community with good sports programs, properly supervised, always has less juvenile delinquency than a community without organized recreational activities," he added.

"It is much cheaper to take care of boys on the outside than on the inside," the senator concluded.

Mayor Newkirk's official welcome included high praise for the Adirondack's record and what they had done for Kingston, particularly in boxing. He paid high tribute to Ben Becker and Joe Kelly for their work in boxing promotion.

A moment of silent prayer was observed in respect to the late Samuel J. Riber.

The speeches by Sen. Wicks and Mayor Newkirk follow:

Welcomed by Mayor

It is a distinct honor, and great pleasure for me to be here today. I am the first mayor of Kingston to welcome you for a convention.

I shall always consider this occasion one of the most important during my term as mayor of the city, because your organization has done much for us.

Records show that the Adirondack A. A. U. has supervised athletic events in which our young athletes have participated, and with distinction.

We have had champions in the swimming races at Williams Lake, winners in track and field programs at Schenectady and boxers in national tournaments.

I hope that during my administration more of our young men and women have the pleasure of competing in meets and events sponsored by the Adirondack A. A. U., and shall do all in my power to encourage them.

Kingston has a recreational program that is envied by other communities of the state, and I would like to see some of our boys and girls with A. A. U. championship medals.

Benefit for City

Your boxing chairman, Ben M. Becker of Albany, is probably the best known member of your organization in Kingston, because he has been appearing here in official capacity for a number of years.

It was through his efforts in collaboration with Joe Kelly and the late Samuel J. Riber that Kingston during the depression years raised approximately $5,000 for a sports program and the Mayor's Industrial Committee.

We feel proud to be represented in the Adirondack A. A. U. and are extremely happy that through the efforts of Dr. Saul Goldfarb of B'nai B'rith this convention is being held in our city.

Wicks Praises Delegates

It is a pleasure for me to address you men who are doing such a splendid job in promoting athletics among the youth of the Adirondack District of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

You men who give up your time for the love of sports deserve extraordinary praise. You are the leaders of a movement that is endorsed by our civic and religious groups as the greatest medium of preparing the growing generation for better lives.

It is a recognized fact that athletics help build character. For this reason, churchmen and our educators include sports in their programs for youth. Officials in our correctional institutions stress that if our youngsters have a chance to play they are less liable to drift into juvenile delinquency.

Of course, supervision is necessary in sports as well as in other things, and it is you men who set the course. You give both time and effort to seeing that the proper programs are arranged. Many an athlete who has made the grade can look to you as the men who gave him his start and guided him on the right path.

Our civic leaders know that to keep the nation strong, we must keep the bodies of our citizens strong. The individual, like the small cog in a machine, is what counts. A weak one destroys the whole process. Your programs keep our youth healthy and prepare each boy and girl for the places they must take in life as leaders.

Still Enjoys Sports

I am a firm believer that a healthy body is the sanctuary of a better, keener mind. It is for this reason that I heartily endorse your organization. I have been a lover of sports all my life, and still enjoy the lighter sort of recreation offered by our local Y.M.C.A. for men in my age group.

I bid you success in the coming year and hope that your accomplishments will be as great as they have in the past. I know Kingston is glad to have you here for your convention and that our citizens will back your programs always.

Hogan, Palmer Haas in Tie

Portland, Ore., Oct. 4 (AP)—Portland's big Open golf tournament went into extra holes today as triple title holder Ben Hogan hooked up in a single round playoff with tall Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C.

The trio bit the wire dead even yesterday in a sensational windup to the $15,000 72-hole links race. Palmer toured the Portland Country Club course, a par 35-37—72 test, with scores of 69-66-68-67 for a total of 270.

Hogan, owner of the U.S. and Western Open crowns in addition to the P.G.A. title, tacked up scores of 67-71-65-67. Haas' similar eighteen under par performance for the distance was accomplished in this fashion: 67-67-71-65.

Hogan teed off today (12 noon P.S.T.) as the favorite, even over the short eighteen hole trip. He was after his ninth tournament win in ten starts.

Sydney, Australia (AP)—When his hunting dogs began disturbing his rest, a Sydney racehorse trainer put a loudspeaker in their kennels and connected it to the public address system he uses to reach his employes. Now when the dogs bark in the middle of the night, he whispers, "lie down," and they stop.

Lyons Quits White Sox

Chicago, Oct. 4 (AP)—Ted Lyons has quit the last-place Chicago White Sox.

His resignation as manager ends a 25-year active career with the club, one of the longest in major league history.

Charles Comiskey, 22-year-old heir of the baseball dynasty, last night announced the appointment of Jack Onslow as Lyon's successor. The 59-year-old Onslow moves up from the Sox Memphis farm club after guiding the Chicks to second place in the Southern Association this season.

Young Comiskey, only grandson of Charles A. Comiskey, one of the national sport's pioneers, said Lyons had refused a position in the White Sox farm system.

"Ted doesn't want a desk job," said Charles, who used to sit on Lyons lap in the dugout as a kid. "He wants to stay active in the game and will start shopping for a new spot."

Lyons, who came to the Sox fresh from Baylor campus in 1923 and became one of the league's top pitchers, had only one comment:

"I did the best I could with what we had."

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Not Finessing Wins Game, Rubber Here

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Artie Dunn, Morty Nevins and Al Nevins, known to music lovers as The Three Suns, dropped in the other day. They were telling me how the idea of forming a trio came to them one day in a Brooklyn taxicab. Now they are on top of the world, playing at the Astor Roof in New York city.

Morty told a few stories, including the one about the card player who joined Alcoholics Anonymous and was afraid he might be expelled when he took up the game called gin.

After a game of Kalabriasz with Morty, we decided to play bridge. I played with Artie, who is considered a very good pinochle player. His pinochle experience gave us game and rubber on today's hand.

Unfortunately for him, Morty opened the ten of clubs, which Artie won with the ace. In pinochle you force out the opponents' high cards without wasting time taking finesses. So Artie did not make the mistake of going over to dummy with a spade to take a heart finesse, which would have lost. If he had done so, he might have tried going back to dummy and taking another heart finesse. Artie simply laid down the ace and queen of hearts. Morty won the queen with the king and now there was no return he could make that would prevent Artie from making nine tricks.

He led a diamond and when Al put on the queen, Artie won with the ace and led the three of hearts, thus establishing dummy's ten for the ninth trick.

Now I have a pinochle challenge match on my hands. If Artie plays pinochle as well as he plays the organ, I may not do well.

Economy Neckwear

By FRANK TRIPP

Man thinks he's a clever inventive genius; yet for 19 centuries he pulled his shirt over his head.

Not until 1900 did it occur to him that a shirt could have buttons down the front and be put on like a coat.

As late as the turn of the century he still was wearing what amounted to a bag with a collar band at the top; starched dickies without sleeves or tails, just white tombstone slabs to cover frontal nakedness; separate cuffs hitched to his coat sleeves—and paper collars. Yes sir, paper collars and celluoid ones too.

Contemporary women's collars were high with whalebone stays well up to their ears, or chokers of velvet which looked like a label around a catsup bottle.

PAPER COLLARS had varied shapes. There was the turn-down and there was the standup, which really stood up high, till perspiration wilted it into a blotter. "Blotter" was what the sneerers called the paper collar.

Wise devotees of the economical neckwear always carried a spare or two on important occasions. They only cost a couple of cents, the common ones, but you could get sporty and pay as much as a nickel for a better kind.

When you got that extravagant you were faced by a thrift problem. Whether to buy linen collars, two for a quarter, which laundries refreshed for two cents each, or wear blotters and discard them.

Even some fastidious men of means secretly wore paper collars. There were types so well conceived that it took the close scrutiny of a female head upon a male shoulder to detect them.

THEN CAME the celluloid collar; as if it wasn't economy enough to wear a two-cent collar for a week and throw it away.

The celluloid improvement caught my fancy when I was a reporter. Poor as I was, I never wore paper collars but I did fall hook, line and sinker for its celluloid competitor.

These we thought a bit expensive, two bits (that's a quarter) apiece, but they were touted to be indestructible and everlasting. With such prospect, I invested in two of different shapes and confidently expected to be buried in one of them at a ripe old age.

What prevented that I'll soon relate. Until I learned their shortcomings, celluloid collars made my frugal newspaper life one of extreme joy and abandon, satorially speaking.

YOU NOT ONLY could wash a celluloid collar with a damp cloth, but you could do so without taking it off your neck. In fact you could wash your collar and your neck at the same time, if careful not to leave a watermark, such as pester housewives on bath tubs.

Alas, how great expectations end in disappointment. After a few weeks of this heavenly bliss my celluloid collars began to smell.

To my chagrin, loving heads encouraged to lean upon my willing breast were repelled by the odor—and it was not B.O.

The warmth, of which I then had plenty, released an unadvertised smell that the makers put into the trick neckwear; sort of ammonia-like and mildly suggestive of a horse paddock.

COMPLETE DISILLUSIONMENT, and return to cloth collars, came when a yellowish brown developed around the top edge of my new collars. Though it matched the meerschaum pipe I was coloring, my 50 cents worth of everlasting chokers went into the ash can.

With the newsprint shortage, I'd be the last to suggest a return to paper collars. But here is a challenge for the birds who play with plastics—if they can harness the aroma.

Allen Would Bond His Radio Listeners

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—Fred Allen has started a one-man radio campaign against the "give-away" programs that have won millions of listeners.

The dour radio comedian has agreed "in self defense" to bond his listeners up to $5,000 against the loss of any prize they might win by listening to some other program.

Allen says "give-away" programs "are ruining incentive for individual talent in radio."

Almost at the same time that Allen was starting his campaign last night, Kenneth Crosbie, a Bluffton, Ind., beer salesman, was winning $30,000 in prizes from another show—ABC's "Stop the Music." Crosbie was sitting at home listening to the program when his telephone rang. He correctly identified a "mystery tune" as "Turkeys in the Treetops" and was told he had hit the jackpot.

To start the public laughing, Allen announced the award of these mythical prizes on his NBC program:

A genuine television set; and a saloon and bartender to go with it; 4,000 yards of dental floss, practically new; the gangplank of the liner Queen Mary; 800 pounds of putty for every member of the family; two floors of the Empire State Building; and 12 miles of railroad track and a round house completely furnished.

Allen, who said there are so many programs "giving away things" that many people have stopped tuning in comedians, announced that the National Surety Corporation will guarantee his promise to reimburse his listeners.

Conceding that he expects "to lose somthing" through the bonding, Allen remarked that "the risk has been established to everyone's satisfactions, and where there's a risk, someone will lose."

Eighmey Model Wins Top Prize

A scale model of the quarters of the Kingston Model Railroad Club, built from scrap materials by Mrs Henry P. Eighmey of 94 Highland avenue, received the top award in a model building contest that was a feature of a two-day conclave of model engineers held in Providence, R. I., this past week-end.

The local woman is a member of the National Model Railroad Association and its Northeastern Region, the latter comprising model engineers in New England, New York, and New Jersey. Mrs. Eighmey has constructed a number of quarter-inch scale railroad cars and structures for the local club and several years ago appeared on the Hobby Lobby program which was a feature of a nation-wide radio hookup.

The Northeastern Region, organized in Kingston in April, 1946, held its annual fall convention in Providence, R. I., with a fan trip Saturday afternoon over the narrow gauge railroad owned and operated by Ellis D. Atwood, manufacturer of Ocean Spray Cranberry products. The regular business session of the group was held Sunday and registered over 150 members of the region.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey represented the local club at the convention, traveling to and from Providence in a private railroad car chartered by the New York Society of Model Engineers out of Grand Central Terminal, New York.

More than two billion nickels were minted in the first 75 years of their use.

Fake Coal Is Six Times as Hot

With real coal a scarce item in Berlin, "ersatz" (imitation) coal is being manufactured in the American sector. It's made of sawdust, coal dust and a tarlike substance, and has six times the heating value of the real thing. It's much cheaper, too. These men work between piles of coal dust and sawdust. ## Jewish New Year Began Sunday

The celebration of the Jewish New Year 5709 began Sunday night at sunset with the Rosh Hashonah services. The Jewish High Holy Days, known as the "Days of Awe," will end with Yom Kippur, the solemn Day of Atonement at sunset on Wednesday.

Rosh Hashonah, New Year's Day, literally means head of the year in Hebrew. This is observed for one day only by Reform Jews and for two days by Orthodox and Conservative members of the faith.

For all Jews, the observance of this festival began at sunset Sunday with the blowing of the shofar, or ram's horn, at the synagogue services.

During these Holy Days, special services are being held at Temple Emanuel, Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom; Ahavath Israel, Rabbi Frank D. Plotke; and Agudas Achim, Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport.

Bodies of Six Men Recovered From River

New York, Oct. 4 (AP) — The bodies of six men have been recovered from a tugboat which sank in the Hudson river after a collision with the 12,000-ton freighter Eliza J. Nicholson in the dark early Saturday.

Nine men had been reported missing when the 115-foot tug, the Ann Marie Tracy, sank.

The tugboat was raised from the bottom of the river yesterday. Two of the bodies were identified last night as Russell Kimmel, 47, chief engineer, and Frank Gryzick, an oiler. The others were not identified immediately.

A crane-barge raised the tug 50 feet from thick mud on the river bottom.

Six other men on the tug were rescued after the collision.

Boy Kills Brother Over Comic Book

New Castle, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP)—A six-year-old boy fatally wounded his 10-year-old brother in an argument over a comic book, Lawrence County Coroner Charles Allen reported.

Allen said the older boy, George Lee Nail, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nail of suburban Clifton Flats, died in New Castle Hospital yesterday, a few hours after he was shot in the head with a 12-gauge shotgun.

The coroner said the shotgun was fired by the victim's younger brother, Samuel Thomas Nail. Allen said the argument arose from George's wish to trade a comic book with a neighbor boy and Samuel's protest that he had not yet seen the book.

The shooting occurred, Allen said, in the bedroom the boys shared and happened after the boys' father, a steelworker, had ordered George to bed to end the argument.

The coroner quoted the father as saying he kept the shotgun unloaded in his own bedroom and the shells hidden in a vase.

District Attorney Leroy K. Donaldson said Samuel was too hysterical to be questioned. The case, Donaldson said, will be turned over to the juvenile court. No charge will be filed, he said, because the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania believes a child of less than seven years incapable of committing a crime.

Marines To Install Officers of League

Commandant-elect Eugene Barkow and other newly-elected officers of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, will be officially installed during the open night program tonight at the American Legion Building, West O'Reilly street.

All Marines are cordially invited to attend. The meeting will open at 8 p. m.

New officers of the organization are as follow:

Eugene Barkow, commandant; Harold E. Macholdt, senior vice-commandant; John K. Lang, junior vice-commandant; Francis M. Cronk, adjutant-paymaster; Albert Melville, chief of staff; Edward Esposito, judge advocate; Harold DeGraff, chaplain; Willow Harrell, sergeant-at-arms; and John Ray Mayone, trustee for a three year term.

Other members of the board of trustees are James E. Cave, Jr., and Thomas J. Finnerty. Chairman Mayone is replacing Francis M. Cronk, whose term has expired.

During the recent election of officers, the work of former Commandant Macholdt was praised.

It is hoped that arrangements will be completed in time for tonight's meeting for the presentation of theatre ribbons and medals to the Marines who earned them during World War 2.

Refreshments will be served after tonight's meeting to all Marines and their guests.

Free Enterprise---Up to a Point

Donald Manues learned that the free enterprise system works only so far. When the 4½-year-old St. Louis, Mo., lad ran away from home to pursue his "lifetime" ambition—shining shoes—he found certain limitations. Namely the police department, which shooed him back home.

Weir Is Charged With Manslaughter For Derring Death

Truro, N. S., Oct. 4 (AP)—Benjamin Franklyn Weir of Schuylerville, N. Y., was charged with manslaughter Saturday night following the fatal shooting of Kenneth Derring, 45, of Castleton-on-Hudson, N. Y., on a deer hunting trip.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police laid the charge despite a verdict of accidental death by a coroner's jury.

Death of Derring, a former president of the New York Fish and Game Association and a strong advocate of woods safety, was Nova Scotia's first hunting season fatality.

The weather was foggy when Weir, 30-year-old former soldier, fired into a clump of foliage at 400 yards, the inquest was told. When he reached the spot he found Derring dying.

Other members of the hunting party were Joseph Rushby, Castleton, and Robert Otty of Albany.

Derring was wearing an all-red outfit at the time of the shooting.

Two Youths Held For Queens Thefts

New York, Oct. 4 (AP) — Two Cleveland youths were arrested in connection with three house burglaries last night in Jamaica Estates, a fashionable real estate development in Queens.

Police identified the pair as Robert Martucci, 18, charged with grand larceny and burglary; and Lawrence Nolan, 17, charged with burglary, grand larceny of an automobile, and violation of the Sullivan Anti-weapons Law.

Police said they recovered loot, whose value was not estimated immediately, from a furnished room where the youths had been staying in Queens.

They had a sedan believed to have been stolen from a Cleveland parking lot, police said.

In the car, police said, were a double-barreled shotgun, rings, a radio, a camera and other articles, which detectives said may have been stolen in Cleveland.

Police said Nolan was carrying a loaded .22 caliber revolver.

Junior Counsellors Honored at Banqdet

The entire group, seven strong, supervised by Camp Director Louis H. Schafer and Mrs. Schafer, had their banquet at Judy's. While at Judy's each counsellor received a handsome pen and pencil set for their efforts in assisting the camp senior counsellors in their daily duties. The group then attended the theatre. This was followed by ice cream treat by the camp director.

The junior counsellors were Gerald Bechtold, Una Louise Schafer, Mary Jean Keller and Eleanore Lawrence of Kingston and Richard Fein of Saugerties.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

An artificial flower and a set of itchy fingers were once worth a million dollars to David Belasco.

Here's the how-come.

In 1926, the talented gent with the fore-and-aft collar produced a play called "Lulu Belle." It was written by Charles MacArthur in collaboration with the late Edward Sheldon, and it starred a memorable hunk of woman named Lenore Ulric. As I remember the show, it was a little south of Shakespeare, but it had a salable commodity known to the trade as "Sex."

Soon after "Lulu Belle" opened, several Societies for the Suppression of Practically Everything began throwing rusty harpoons at it and demanding the city fathers close it up. One prominent member of the puce proboscis set—a yahoo I will misname B. Sidney Walton—took the lead in this badgering and, seeing as how votes are votes, it looked like a quick curtain for "Lulu."

And now for the flower and itchy finger episode. Scene: The counter of a Brooklyn department store. Time: About 48 hours before B. Sidney Walton was to present the Mayor with a boxful of petitions insisting the MacArthur-Sheldon opus be banned.

Around noon that day, a dignified biddy edged up to the flower counter, inspected a purple-cloth poppy and decided she wanted it badly but not badly enough to pay for it. As she was easing it into her handbag, a store detective introduced himself and suggested a conference in the manager's office.

This pow-wow was a brief one. The manager agreed not to prosecute if the matron would sign a confession and submit to fingerprinting. The store, he explained, had adopted this system to avoid being sued for false arrest, and her confession would only be used if she were caught stealing a second time. The rich klepto signed with all 10 digits and swished out of the store.

Now, it so happened that the manager's secretary, who had been present during the interview, was keeping company with a Brooklyn newspaper reporter named Charlie Samuels, and over a bowl of chop suey that night, she told him about "laffaire flower. "Seems I've heard the shoplifter's name before," she said. "It's Mrs. B. Sidney Walton."

"Thanks for a front-page story," said the reporter as he got up and started for a phone booth.

His girl grabbed him. "You can't print that," she said. "It would mean my job. The boss knows I go around with you, and that nobody else could have tipped you off."

Charlie muttered something about the freedom of the press; but he went back to his chop suey. And that would have been that if he hadn't run into Ben Hecht next day and spilled the yarn.

"Call Charlie MacArthur," said Ben, "and tell him exactly what you told me."

"What's the idea?" asked Samuels.

"Never mind," said Hecht. "Just call him."

Charlie suited his deed to Hecht's word, and called MacArthur. "Good yarn," said the playwright. "Too bad you can't use it." But a moment later MacArthur was thumbing through the W's in the phone directory.

B. Sidney himself answered the phone. "I'm writing a piece about kleptomanics for THE NEW YORKER," MacArthur explained, "and I'd like to get your opinion of the lead paragraph."

"I'll be delighted to help," said sapphire schnozzle. "Go right ahead."

"It has to do with your wife," said MacArthur pleasantly, "and her depressing experience the other day when she was picked up for shoplifting. I understand she signed a confession and was fingerprinted."

There was a sound like a far-away escape of steam, and then, the self-appointed censor said, "Who did you say was calling?"

"Charles MacArthur," said the playwright. "Perhaps you recognize the name—I'm co-author of a play called 'Lulu Belle.'"

After a nice moment of nothing, Walton said, "Perhaps I misjudged your play, Mr. MacArthur. I've been thinking the matter over, and it seems to me that 'Lulu Belle' has certain educational qualities which escaped me the first time I saw it."

Fire Halts Demonstration

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP)—A fire prevention week demonstration was called off yesterday because of a fire. Firemen, manning their brightly polished apparatus, were demonstrating methods of extinguishing various types of blazes in Bone Stadium here when an alarm was sounded at a coal breaker and silt refining plant. The firefighters abandoned their exhibition and went to the real blaze, working for more than an hour before putting out minor fires started by sparks in a half dozen nearby homes and business places. The breaker and refining plant were destroyed. The fire prevention week demonstration was not resumed.

Breaks Hong Kong

Hong Kong, (AP)—The Government of Hong Kong faces a budget deficit of $4,625,000 in U. S. money during the current fiscal year, Acting Secretary of Finance A. G. Clarke warned members of the Legislative Council. The secretary, speaking in defense of a proposed stamp tax, said an estimated surplus of $375,000 was wiped out by an allocation of $5,000,000 to cover salary payment to government employees who remained on the job during the Japanese occupation.

Union News Strike Still Is Effective

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—A C.I.O. union spokesman said last night a strike by 1,100 employes of the Union News Company was "still 100 per cent effective."

The strike, which started Saturday, was called by Local 906 of the C.I.O. News Distribution Employes Union. Negotiations between the union and the company, with a state mediator sitting in, bogged down Friday night.

The walkout, the union claimed yesterday, had closed company newsstands and soft drink counters at railroad stations in New York city, Long Island, Westchester county and southern Connecticut.

A company official said, however, that supervisory employes operated several stands at Grand Central Terminal and Pennsylvania Station.

Conceding that some company units still were doing business, the union spokesman said they were not manned entirely by supervisory workers, as claimed by the company. He did not elaborate on this issue.

The union, which originally sought a 40-hour work week, now demands the same take-home pay for 44 hours as for the prevailing 48-hour week, plus a pay increase of 15 cents an hour for all employes.

Under a contract which expired last Thursday, the union says, clerks received an average of 80 cents an hour and agents an average of $60 week.

A piece of charcoal placed on the shelves of a refrigerator acts as an absorbent for all odors.

The United States has about 50,000 distributors of fluid milk, according to estimates.
